Hearing On Billings Plea For Pardon Ended By Justices

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

How we love these people who, when they have any free publicity that they wish to gain, call the newspapers and give them the story.

And then, when there's a real story to be gotten, these same people don't know newspapermen.

It all comes back to the old phrase, "There isn't any gratitude."

These warm days make one wish one were a seal . . . and could swim around all day.

For light reading, pick up "Labels" by A. Hamilton Gibbs at the Richmond library.

You'll enjoy the book, from cover to cover.

There should be a law against the placing of these radios out on the street corner and turning them on full blast.

Music may soothe the savage beast—but a radio turned on so loudly that it can be heard five blocks away does anything but soothe the residents of the neighborhood.

When a job is too big for a man . . . the job suffers.

And when a man is too big for his job . . . the man suffers.

Aimee is in the head lines again.

This time Aimee is almost blind . . . and on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

And on top of all her troubles, Ma Kennedy declares Aimee struck her on the nose and as a result she had to go to the hospital.

Aimee has denied this charge.

Aimee is always good for a headline or a top head.

Those who believe in her, read each word about her . . . because they love her.

The others who don't believe in her read each word . . . and laugh.

But her unexplained "kidnapping" will always be held against her by the unbelievers.

Perhaps, some day the truth of the whole affair will become known.

Kiwanis Hear Talk On Russia

"Conditions in Russia as They Are Today" was the subject of an address given before the Richmond Kiwanis club yesterday by Dr. Louis Patmont of Santa Rosa. The speaker was formerly secretary to the ambassador of Russia. Patmont is able to speak 20 languages.

An accordion and harp duet by Mrs. Edith Overman and Charles Rothrock was presented during the luncheon. Clinton Arnold was the chairman of the meeting.

ON VACATION
Mrs. Virginia Smith of 425 Twenty-first street is enjoying a several week's visit in Washington. She is employed by the Contra Costa Title company, here.

PLAN TO BE GIVEN TO OFFICIALS

The budget for the fiscal year of 1930-31 will be presented to the Richmond city council next Monday night.

This was the announcement made yesterday by J. A. McVittie, Richmond city manager.

It could not be told yesterday whether or not there will be an increase or decrease in the budget.

McVittie stated that city officials are still at work on the plan, and expect to have it completed by Monday morning.

Monday evening the council will be presented with the budget, which will be discussed at that time.

It is expected that the group will adopt the plan at a later meeting.

HIGH BUDGET FOR YEAR

Boys' athletics at Richmond Union high school has been apportioned 60 percent of the finances of the high school Students association on the budget adopted at a recent meeting of the student commissioners.

Girls' athletics will receive 10 percent of the budget for the fall semester. Social activities has been given 15 percent, while 15 percent has been set aside for the miscellaneous fund.

Boys' sports has received a comparatively large sum due to the expense of purchasing new athletic equipment and preparing for football season. Transportation expense also was a large factor in the formation of the budget.

Girls' athletics at Richmond Union high school is not inter-scholastic, and therefore does not require the expenditure of a large sum.

Among social activities for which the social fund has been set aside, are dances, concerts, and assembly entertainments.

Young Rally Held In City

The C. C. Young rally, held last night in the Lincoln school auditorium, was attended by more than 200 persons.

Bert Meek, director of public works and Paul Sharranburg, secretary of the state federation of labor, were the speakers.

Both men declared that the gubernatorial fight lies between Young and Burton Pitts; declaring that Ralph's candidacy was merely a side issue.

Dr. C. L. Abbott, president of the county Young for Governor committee, opened the meeting and introduced T. H. DeLap, chairman of the evening.

LOCAL MAN LEGION HEAD

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 20.—Recommendations and elections comprised the principal business of today's session of the American Legion convention in Sacramento.

A highlight of the meeting was the naming of Charles W. W. St. John of Richmond post, as vice-commander of the ninth district of the American Legion which will in the future be composed of Contra Costa county, Pleasanton, Livermore, Hayward and Niles, formerly all in the ninth district were placed in the 10th district. St. John succeeds Cecil Godkin of Hayward.

Re-appointment of James K. Fisk as state adjutant was also announced by department commander Garhart of Fresno. C. L. DeBenedetti of Concord was defeated for department sergeant-at-arms by Dave McCullough of San Jose.

After a long debate it was voted to adopt a proposal to decrease the term of office of district commander from two years to one year. Long Beach was decided upon as the 1931 convention city.

Other resolutions adopted were as follows:
Approving the selection of Los Angeles for the 1931 national convention of the legion.

Recommending adoption by congress of legislation providing for limitation of Filipino immigration.

Recommending the erection of additional barracks facilities at the national veterans' home at Sawtelle.

Endorsing the proposed United States naval base in San Francisco bay.

Endorsing the proposal to increase pay of retired enlisted men in the army.

Recommending that the state rebuild the veterans' home at Yountville without delay under the present 10 years building program.

OREGON ASKS DROUGHT AID

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 20.—UP—A plea that the federal government bring relief to drought-stricken areas of central Oregon was telegraphed to President Hoover today by Governor A. W. Norblad.

The appeal was made after the Bend chamber of commerce had informed the state executive that conditions, insofar as individual families are concerned, are greater in extent in parts of central Oregon than in the middle west.

Governor Norblad informed the president that the "distressing conditions are due to lack of water supply," particularly in the Deschutes river.

Earlier, the Bend chamber, thru L. K. Cramb, secretary, asked the government to provide additional storage and eliminate the use of water from the Deschutes river for power purposes, the entire cost to the government to be prepaid by water users.

AIR DERBY TO START TODAY

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 20.—UP—At least five pilots will take off here tomorrow morning in the men's Pacific air derby, a feature of the National Air races at Chicago.

Interest in the event picked up some today and it was thought that another entrant or two might start. The flight will carry the plane across the northwestern section of the country with overnight stops at Spokane, Billings, Aberdeen and St. Paul. Intermediate stops will be made at Portland, Butte, Bismark, Fargo and Milwaukee.

Prizes totaling $7000 are offered. The pilots so far entered: Bert Knoff, Seattle; Ed Shick, Portland; Al Paulson, Seattle; John Pium, Seattle; and Joe Paine, Seattle.

TESTIMONY WILL BE STUDIED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—UP—With more than half a million words in testimony in its record the hearing before Justice of the California Supreme court on the pardon application of Warren K. Billings was closed for tonight.

Though there were several witnesses yet to be called both for and against the application, Chief Justice William H. Waste announced that further testimony would probably be taken by depositions or affidavit.

The adjournment came in the middle of the fourth week of the hearing.

Study To Start
Deliberation will not begin, Justice Waste said, for ten days, as the justices will leave immediately for their homes, to be present next Tuesday, when the California primary election will be held.

Thus Gov. C. C. Young will be re-elected or defeated on issues other than his disposition of the pardon, applications of Billings and Tom Mooney, convicted together of the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916, in which ten persons lost their lives.

The court took under advisement the request of Edwin V. McKenzie, Billings attorney, that Mooney be (Continued on Page 8)

MRS. KENNEDY SAYS FRIENDS OF EVANGELIST ARE PLOTTERS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—UP—The turmoil over the present illness of Aimee Semple McPherson was described tonight as a plot to wrest control of Angelus Temple from the evangelist.

The scheme, according to Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, was designed by certain of her daughter's "pretended friends who hope to make sister appear crazy."

"This ill-advised publicity about sister's illness and the talk about blindness merely is a part of the plot," Mrs. Kennedy said. "The schemers want her followers to believe that she is no longer responsible for her actions."

Long Statement
Before Mrs. Kennedy announced her daughter's illness, she had lifted. The charge of the death threat was made when Mrs. Kennedy was informed that Mrs. McPherson had denied striking her.

"She certainly did," Mrs. Kennedy said. "She knocked me down she hit me so hard! Then she threatened to have me killed."

Doctors Called
"I don't know why sister should have all those physicians around her now," Mrs. Kennedy said. "I suppose she has lost faith in her own power to cure. I remember I once went into a room just as a doctor was giving her a hypodermic. She was just going out to 'wretch, too. I asked her how she could expect people (Continued on Page 8)

SHIPS TO BE BUILT HERE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—UP—Construction of steamships ranging from 8000 to 15,000 tons will soon become a regular occurrence on the Pacific coast, in the opinion of Samuel S. Sandberg, member of the U. S. Shipping Board.

"Construction of new freight carriers to replace vessels purchased from the shipping board will start soon, probably within two years, or as soon as shipping revives throughout the world, and from that time on Pacific coast yards should get their share of the new work," Sandberg said. "Despite the difference in cost of materials, they can compete with Atlantic yards."

Sandberg said that operators planning to construct passenger liners may award contracts to Pacific coast yards if they desire.

One hundred men were on the front and additional equipment was being sent to them. The worst blaze was in the woods near the water pumping system. A wind was advancing the fire toward the navy yard highway, which separated the flames from the water system.

200 MEN AT WORK ON SITE

Driving of piles for the foundation of the Ford Motor company plant on the inner harbor was started by the Western Foundation company yesterday at noon.

When work was finished for the day at five o'clock last night five piles had been driven.

This was the start of the actual building of the new $3,500,000 motor factory in Richmond.

Steel Work Soon
The next step, as soon as the driving of the piles is finished, will be the placing of the footings and then the work of erecting the steel will be started.

This phase of the work is expected to be started within 30 days, it was reported.

Three pile drivers will be employed by the Western Foundation company in driving the supports for the building.

Green wooden piles, with concrete tops, are being used on the job.

Piles Poured
Concrete piles are being poured at the plant site.

At the present time there are about 200 men employed on the job here.

Work at the local plant is being pushed rapidly.

DEATH CALLS WOMAN, 94

Mary Elizabeth Porcher, 94 years of age, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Marion Cole, 202 Central avenue Richmond Annex, last night after an illness of only nine days.

Mrs. Porcher, born in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1836, came to San Francisco in 1873 when that city was only a shell of the metropolis it has now become.

Since then the deceased has resided in the bay district, coming to Richmond Annex nine years ago to live with her daughter.

Funeral services will be held at the Ryan Funeral home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and cremation will follow at the Berkeley crematorium.

Deceased is survived by a brother, George Davis of Philadelphia; and four children, Mrs. Mary McIntyre of Santa Rosa; John D. Wightman of Berkeley; Charles S. Wightman of Oakland and Mrs. Marion Cole of Richmond Annex.

Twelve grandchildren and nine great grandchildren also survive the aged matron.

Taxi Dancer Hearing On

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—UP—The trial of Miss Clara Hanks Nelson, Oakland taxi-dancer, entered its second day in superior court today. Miss Nelson is charged with theft of $27,552 from C. Harold Morehouse, wealthy clubman.

The dancer claims that the money was given her as a gift.

Morehouse admitted in court today that he had frequently given the girl comparatively small gifts of money and jewelry. He also told of his efforts to locate Miss Nelson following the alleged theft, which, he said, occurred as they sat in his automobile together.

CITY BALL TITLE TO BE DECIDED HERE SUNDAY

Baseball interest in Richmond riveted upon the Richmond City Twilight baseball league title bout which will be staged upon the First street diamond Sunday morning.

The two teams who will battle for league honors are the Odd Fellows and Native Sons. Both squads have been hot on each others' trail during a long, hard season which started in the spring. The Odd Fellows nine is a hard-hitting outfit that has done damage to many Class A teams of the eastbay, while the Native Sons possess one of the nicest fielding squads on local diamonds. Therefore, Sunday's title game should be a pretty even affair, and fans may expect to witness a good exhibition of baseball as played by the cream of the local baseball "Who's Who."

Sunday's game will, besides deciding the league winners, be the first game of a two-out-of-three game series to be played between the first and second place squads for a cup donated by the Mechanics Bank.

Gold baseballs will be presented to the league champions following Sunday's encounter.

Johnny Babich will be on the mound for the Odd Fellows Sunday. Bill Guadoni will be behind the home plate for the linkers. "Lefty" DeBare is scheduled to go into the box for the Native Sons, with Fink receiving.

The title contest will start at 10 o'clock on the First street lot Sunday morning.

Légion Gridmen Practice Tonight

Another practice has been scheduled for tonight by the Richmond Post of the American Legion football team, to be held on the Richmond Union High school field.

To date the boys have been holding light workouts, but heavier practice with the possibility of scrimmage by next week is anticipated.

Practice nights have been set for Tuesday and Thursday of each week, and in another week scrimmage practice will be held Sunday mornings.

FROSH ELEVEN AT U. C. TO BE GOOD

BERKELEY, Aug. 20.—If "paper surveys" of material mean anything, the 1930 freshman football team at the University of California will be good.

Enough former high and prep Coach Roy Riegels to assure him of adequate material when he opens his first campaign as freshman man coach on September 15.

About twenty-five players of known abilities have completed their matriculation at the Berkeley institution and have indicated to Riegels that they will be on hand when practice begins. On paper they look promising, he believes, and while he is not placing undue reliance on high school reputations for ability, he considers prospects to be bright.

Two prospects who are at present outstanding are Bob Kiesel, Tamapais high school halfback, who is probably best known as a brilliant high school sprinter, and Lloyd Sublett, an end from Palo Alto high school. Sublett is a tall 190-pounder and should be a distinct asset to the Bear Backs.

Dick Coar, of Alhambra high, and Lloyd Piller, who gained his prep experience at Valley, are two more good ends. Of the two, Piller is said to be the better.

Riegels will have a sextet of heavyweights for tackles and this, incidentally, will be good news for Head Coach C. M. Nibs' Price, who has found filling the tackle position one of his most worrisome tasks.

Charles Thompson, captain in 1928 of the Fullerton high school team; Art Carlson, of Manual Arts; Lowell Moore, of Roosevelt high, Oakland, and John Ransome, of Berkeley high, are regarded as the best of the crop of tackles. They average 195 pounds between the four of them. The other two big men available are Victor Castagnetto, Vallejo, and Don Bonnell, of University high, Oakland. Castagnetto weighs about 200 pounds; while Bonnell tips the beam at somewhere near 225 pounds. Another tackle candidate is Francis Alkire, of Santa Rosa, who weighs in at 190.

Guard material is not quite as abundant. Thompson may fit into the picture at this position, since he played it in high school. Fred Dolling, of Tracy high and Rawlings Simon, of Damon's Preparatory school, San Francisco, together with Ralph Brewer, Bakersfield high school star; Theo Daniel, of Lick-Wilmerding, San Francisco, and Bart Worley, Woodland, are the candidates who have reported to date. Brewer comes to the university with a brilliant high school record.

Two centers have registered—Glenn Tucker, of Roosevelt high, Oakland, and George Kemp, of Petaluma high. Tucker is best known locally, but Kemp is rated as a good prospect.

Two former southern California high school captains will vie for a place at quarter. They are Oakley Adams, of Fullerton high, who captained his school team in 1927, and Charles Stewart, all-round athlete of Oneonta Military Academy and football captain there last season. In addition to Kiesel, Riegels may find use for two other sprinters in his backfield, since Francis Kilfoil, halfback, of the Oneonta academy and Jim Keefer, fullback, of Chico high, are registered. Missions Lose To Senators SACRAMENTO, Aug. 20.—UP.—With Fay Thomas holding the San Francisco Missions to three line hits the Senators defeated the Missions here tonight 7 to 0. The Senators took the lead in the second inning when they marked up one tally. In the third they added three more, another in the fourth and finished their scoring in the fifth, crossing the plate twice.

back with a reputation for speed is Clayton Rhoys, also of the Chico school. Keefer is the biggest of the three.

Other outstanding backs are Roland and Nichols, of Hemet and Arnold Hubblom, of Kingsbury, both of whom are halfbacks. There is at present a scarcity of fullback material, and this looks to be one of the problems Riegels will have to solve.

PASADENA BOY MAY MAKE CUP TEAM

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—UP.—Tall, rangy to the point of awkwardness, and anything but ethically graceful on the tennis court, Ellsworth Vines, 18-year-old Pasadena youth, today stands as one of the most promising of United States Davis cup prospects.

Reports from current tournaments in the east describe young Vines' rise as "meteoric," and while his rise to prominence on eastern courts has been as much the description hardly fits to the Pasadena's climb among the tennis elite.

Long years of practice, setbacks from more brilliant but erratic players, and most discouraging of all perhaps, a series of three-year defeats at the hands of his doubles partner, Keith Gledhill—all of this is back of

Playing more of an eastern type of tennis than western, despite the fact that nearly all of his playing has been in the west. Vines has easily adapted himself to the turf and slower eastern turf courts. His drives, considered almost too flat on cement, are undoubtedly accountable for his 53 placements scored against Frank Hunter in their Seabright meeting.

Tennis critics say he has but one weakness, that being a tendency to fall back from the baseline following his service. The orthodox style is to "follow through" to gain net vantage. This fault, according to Vincent Richards, must be remedied before Vines can attain the position due the rest of his game.

His services are almost as fast as those of Johnny Doe's; his backhand drive is one of the flattest and hardest being used in the country.

His net game is considered flawless, his forehand drives are extremely powerful, his temperament appears ideally suited for the strain of tournament play.

ODD FELLOWS WILL MEET COREYS

A three game series between the Odd Fellows and Corey Garagemen will end Sunday afternoon when these two rivals mix in the decisive contest. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock at San Pablo.

Each team has carried off one victory, and Sunday's game will tell the tale in this unofficial rivalry.

Carl Kamb and Rosano will be the linkers' battery for Sunday. The mound work for the Coreys will be done by Eglight, with Johnson receiving.

OAKS LOSE

OAKLAND, Aug. 20.—UP.—The Hollywood Stars defeated the Oakland Oaks here tonight, six to four. The Stars took the lead from the first inning and held it throughout the balance of the game. The Oaks made four errors that contributed to their defeat.

Just what limits he will reach in the world of tennis will depend a great deal on what operation he receives from various sponsoring organizations in California. He admittedly is not wealthy, and to travel and keep space a tennis season is a serious financial problem, some estimating the cost to run as high as $5000 a season.

One thing seems certain, however, and that is that Ellsworth Vines is destined for a firm position in the American Hall of Tennis Fame.

ROBINS BEAT IN TWO GAMES

By UNITED PRESS

National League:
The three ring leaders of the National league pennant race took it on the chin in Wednesday's games. Brooklyn's drooping Robins sagged their tail feathers a bit more after a double-header defeat sustained at the hands of Cincinnati's Reds. Both scores were 2-1.

Chicago's leading Cubs were defeated before a home crowd, the Phillies taking the game, 10-8. The New York Giants lost 4-5 to the St. Louis Cards.

The Reds snapped a seven-game losing streak at a bad time for the Robins. Benny Frey had a shade over Adolfo Luque in the first game although both allowed seven hits. Swanson's triple accounted for the first Reds' run. Red Lucas was a pinch hitter in the second game, he batted in the ninth, hit a double, and the Reds won.

Two mistakes in the seventh inning lost for the Giants. In the Cards' half of the stand-up inning, the bases were full when Fitzsimmons made a wild pitch. Grimes scored from third on the throw, and when Hogan dropped Marshall's throw, Wilson scored with the winning run.

Five home runs allowed the Phils to beat the Cubs. Davis got two and O'Doul, Klein and Hurst each made one.

Remy Kremer scored his 17th victory of the season by blanking the Braves and the Pirates won, 5 to 0. Boston made but five hits.

American League:

The American league had but two games Wednesday and the two leaders won. Philadelphia's A's beating the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 6, while Washington scored a 14 to 4 victory over St. Louis.

The A's won behind Lefty Grove who scored his 21st victory of the season. Grove was able to coast to victory because of the many hits scored by his mates.

Washington's margin of victory was gained in the fifth when ten runs crossed the plate.

HIGH GRIDDERS PREPARE FOR SEASON

Football season will be initiated at Richmond Union High school Aug. 29, when the gridders of Oakland Technical High school come to Richmond to settle their annual argument.

Last year's dispute ended in a six to six tie, which forbodes a rather torrid debate to take place on the Richmond Union High school gridiron in the near future.

Phil Hempler and Frank Ribbel, athletic coaches at the local high school, have been the cause of much perspiration on the high school field since the beginning of the fall term more than a week ago. Score shoulders, sore arms, sore legs and a team capable of holding the warriors of Oakland Tech have been the results obtained thus far.

This year's Richmond High squad is a pretty even mixture of experience and ambition.

Hempler possesses an exceptionally fast and experienced backfield. Every member of the first string backfield has seen heavy action on former Red and Blue grid squads. They are Mike Brock, who was unfortunately injured early last season, Leslie Scarsella and Ed Masek, low juniors who made a great name for themselves last year, John Rosano, a hard-plunging fullback, Jack Stoddard, Bob Miller, George Miller, and Woodrow Snodgrass. The last four athletes have been first string B's until this year, when they are graduating to the varsity.

Richmond may place great confidence in its line this autumn.

The veterans of this year's line are "Big Benny" Hoefer, Emerick Baxter, Louis Ball, tackles; Ray Juller, Carl Drexel, and Ugo Boschetti, ends; and Clarence Hall center.

The new aspirants for line positions all tote plenty of weight and speed and experience. Dave Lilly, tackle, has seen action on the teams of other eastbay high schools, and should prove valuable to Hempler. Ed Westman is another hefty lad who should be useful as a tackle. The new ends are Greletti, Pinzilli, and Harlow. Al Brignone is out for the pivotal position. Joe Bono and Merle Baskett are expected to see action as guards this season.

Seals Defeat Seattle Tribe

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—UP.—Taking the lead in the first three innings, the San Francisco Seals defeated the Seattle Indians here this afternoon, 15 to 7.

The Indians had one big inning, the eighth when Holland homed with the bases full, and Cox pinch-hitting, doubled, scoring two more runs. But the Seals lead was too strong to overcome.

Angels Win In Portland Game

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—UP.—Art Delaney pitched the Los Angeles Angels to a 10 to 2 victory over the Portland Beavers tonight in the second game of their after dinner series.

OESTERREICH TRIAL RESTS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—UP.—The defense in the trial of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, charged with the murder of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, Milwaukee manufacturer, today rested its case shortly after the woman concluded her testimony in her own defense.

Mrs. Oesterreich, who declared in her testimony that Otto Sanhuber, "ghost of the garrets," fired the shot that killed her husband, had been on the stand since early yesterday afternoon. After introducing a copy of the minutes of his motion to dismiss the case in order to make it a part of the record, Attorney Jerry Geisler rested the case.

Sanhuber, who was jointly indicted with Mrs. Oesterreich for the eight year old murder, was convicted of manslaughter, but escaped sentence under the three year statute of limitations.

With the defense and prosecution agreeing to limit their arguments to three and a half hours each it was indicated that the fate of the wealthy widow would be placed in the hands of the jury tomorrow afternoon.

WICKERSHAM HITS LAW VIOLATORS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—UP.—Americans are inherently lawless, George Wickersham told the American Bar association today. The art of suggestion, he said, often is more potent than legal mandates, bristling with penalties for disobedience.

The former attorney general addressed the 3,000 delegates this afternoon, shortly after they had, in decisive fashion, endorsed continuation of a prohibition poll among their 28,000 members, over objection of drys.

"Americans, inherently, do not seem to be law abiding," the former attorney general said, "and well-directed suggestion often is better than mandates, bristling with penalties."

"There seems to be a spirit abroad to 'beat the law' as long as it can be done and 'get away with it,'" Wickersham said. "Motor car drivers are especially eligible to this class."

Wickersham devoted a part of his address to the prohibition question and revealed that the law enforcement commission unanimously opposed the theory of the Jones "5 and 10" law.

"We thought it unsound to make felonies of petty violations of this or other criminal laws," he said, "it confuses the public mind regarding offenses by blurring the distinction between serious crimes and minor breaches of the statute law."

"Moreover, the federal courts are not equipped for administration of police laws. To a large extent those who are brought before the federal courts for violations of this law are mischievous boys, who ought to be well thrashed and sent home, instead of being branded as felons."

The commission, he said, felt that speedy prosecution of minor offenses with penalties bearing better relation to character of the offense would be more likely to induce respect for law than creation of "disproportionate penalties such as would induce resentment in reasonable minds."

GREATER TALKIE SEASON
FOX CALIFORNIA
—TODAY— —TOMORROW—
The Heartbreaker!
Edmund LOWE
"Good Intentions"
It Will Thrill You Thru and Thru
Talking Comedy 'LOVE HONOR and OH BABY'

EDDIE LOWE IN FILM PLAY AT FOX
"Hardboiled" roles are both the easiest and the most effective ones to play according to Edmund Lowe, Fox movie-tone celebrity who won world wide fame in "What Price Glory," "The Cock-Eyed World" and "Born Reckless," and who is featured in "Good Intentions," the movie-tone drama opening today at the Fox-California theater.
"While I have enacted almost every conceivable type of part during my stage and screen career, I greatly prefer the so-called 'hard-boiled' ones," Lowe says. "Most people have a streak of obstinacy or temper or vanity in their make-up, and the Ivory soap hero, 99 and 40-100 percent pure, seldom exists in real life."
"As a consequence, it is much easier for an actor to impersonate a real life character and make him convincing, with his various faults and idiosyncracies, than it is to portray the gentlemanly and quite colorless hero of the old style fiction and drama. The audience watches one's performance of some 'thirty minute egg' character and immediately recalls a similar person they have known personally, which in turn gives them a greater interest in the portrayal."
"For this reason, too, such impersonations are more effective, as the spectators will remember them much longer than they will the playing of a polite but unreal character. I have proved this time and again in my own experience, basing my conclusions on the quantity of fan mail resulting from each picture. While I have worked just as hard in doing these 'gentlemanly' roles, and I think, given as good a performance, none of them seem to have aroused anything like the response from the tougher portrayals. Evidently the public likes its realism."

Good Intentions
REGIS TOOMEY and Marguerite Churchill are starred in "GOOD INTENTIONS," which is now being shown at the Fox-California theater.

BROADWAY STAR IN FILM AT RICHMOND
Cast in one of the leading female roles of the all-talking version of "Her Unborn Child," descriptive as a tremendous human document, and which is being presented with marked attention at the Richmond theater this week, is no less a stage luminary than Miss Frances Underwood, who has won a niche all for herself in Broadway's hall of fame.
Her climb up the ladder to fame has indeed been an interesting journey. Miss Underwood was born and educated in Los Angeles. Like all good actresses, she made her stage debut in "stock." For four years she played opposite the late Leo Duchschein in his various metropolitan triumphs. In New York she has been identified with such Broadway successes as "Home Fires," "Alias the Deacon," "Civilian Clothes" and numerous other productions equally as well known. In the all-talking version of "Her Unborn Child," Miss Underwood is said to be splendidly cast. Incidentally her portrayal of the mother role is conceded to be one of the outstanding screen triumphs of the year. Her supporting cast is a splendid one, consisting of players whose names are familiar to Broadway theater-goers. They include Harry Davenport, Doris Rankin, Paul Clare, Pauline Drake, Elisha Cook Jr., Adele Johnson, Elizabeth Wragge, Frances Grant and many others equally well known.
The picture holding the screen at the Richmond theater, was adapted for talkie use by Frederic and Fanny Hutton, authors of "Lombardi Ltd." and other Broadway hits. The direction is by Albert Ray who is responsible for several successful photoplays flying the banner of Fox and Tiffany films.

Purchasing Agent Accused Of Too Much Efficiency
FRESNO, Aug. 20.—UP—J. Reed Scheaffer is the first purchasing agent of this county ever to be accused of too much efficiency. Scheaffer, who has been in the local news often for his Scottish tendencies in buying, heard the first complaint against his work for his purchases of milk.
W. J. Quist, dairyman, told the county board of supervisors that Scheaffer's purchases of milk for county institutions has stirred up so much competition among dairy-men that he is able to get milk at far below the usual wholesale price. Quist said Scheaffer's activities tended to demoralize the price of milk in this county.
The board refused to take any action against Scheaffer.

PLANES USED TO KILL HORSES
VALE, Ore., Aug. 20.—UP—An airplane has been pressed into service to make certain that wild, diseased range horses are exterminated in the great Owyhee desert of southern Malheur county, Oregon, southern Idaho and a small part of Nevada and Utah.
The plane, owned by W. A. Dibble of Burns, is part of Archie Myers' horse-running crew which is aiding the government in removing wild mustangs from the ranges. Dibble said he can spot horses from his plane with ease and that the Myers ranch is saved considerable time and money. The Myers ranch runs 20 riders and 100 saddle horses in the roundup of wild horses.
Speed, endurance and obedience are requisites that the saddle horses must have to compete in thrilling chases with wild racers of the ranges.
The day's work begins at 2:30 a. m. after breakfast is served by lantern light. When a herd is rounded up it is taken to the shipping post, where blood tests are made. If the animals are diseased they are shot, while the others are shipped to horse meat plants.

War Started On Fruit Bird
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—UP—War on a bird, the Tech Aerodromes, whose habits are even worse than his name, has been declared by the county agriculture commission.
Six of the fruit destroying aerodromes have been found by county commission members. "Six are known dead."
The unwelcome bird has a tremendous appetite for fruit, or ornithologists report. His favorite recreation is breaking up nests of other birds. His virtues seem to have been left at home in the Hawaiian Islands where he thrives. Under the assumed name of "Asiatic Myna" he has spread to all parts of Asia and Europe.
The "war office" of the commission describes the Asiatic Myna as being almost the size of a crow. His head, neck and breast are black with the exception of a yellow area around his eye. The body is Quaker brown and on the wing there is a broad white bar which is especially noticeable when the bird flies.

Boy 3, Sued In Court
DETROIT.—UP—Emil Onski is only three years old but already life with all its worries and cares is weighing him down. In spite of his tender years he will shortly be the defendant in an $11 damage suit—the youngest person ever to appear in such a suit in Wayne county. Recently a hefty brick crashed through the windshield of Thomas Brown's car and he has charged that Emil threw the brick maliciously and deliberately. Emil mourns at home now, for, besides the damage suit, he has the mumps.

But, Anyhow, She Can TELL Him!

ONCE upon a time we wrote a piece for the column about the home woman's being able to afford the luxury of integrity—the luxury of saying what she thinks to her husband—

Even of telling him what she thinks ABOUT him—
The home woman's opportunity, in short, not to be a "yes woman."
In the next mail we received from a most charming and clever lady
A protest so amusing that we're going to print it—
Besides, we want to answer it, and surely a woman's column
Should enjoy woman's privilege of the last word!
"Tonight I was jolted," candidly confesses our correspondent,
"By what you say about a woman's always being able to say what she thinks to her husband—
"About her not having to 'yes' him."
"Lady, you're wrong!
"For, lo, these many years, I have been getting letters
"From women all over the country.
"And these letters simply reinforce my conviction
"That no man ever really takes anything from a woman,
"And the more she cares for him the less he takes!
"Maybe, of course, he sometimes takes it from his mother,
"But my correspondents, literally hundreds of thousands of women, don't seem to say so.
"They complain that, all the way from telling him that he ought not to smoke fifteen cigars a day
"To demanding that he shall speak with moderation,
"Or that he shall not have lights on love—
"They get nothing but trouble and grief
"For trying to tell a man anything.
"I'm no man-hater—far from it.
"But I have come to the belief that, until men have known some few thousand years of woman domination—
"A thing which I fear is actually going to fall on the sex
"Gradually, but none the less surely—
"No man will ever do anything but mentally thumb the nose
"At a woman's protests or opinions.
"I do not believe in either sex ruling the other,
"But men have had the upper hand too long.
"Nothing will teach them wisdom but being stamped on, hard.
"Women are not innately wiser or better than men.
"But they are a superior race by dint of having been severely polished—
"Not to say filed down—
"By the heavy hand of Brother Man, who usually goes through life with the firm belief "That all women are morons, weak sisters, hard-boiled eggs, useless animals.
"Or druggies designed by kind heaven for men's comfort.
"Or wicked but very alluring creatures
"Who are delightfully interesting, though likely to be dangerous.
"Can't you dig in, once in a while, about a little REAL equality between the sexes?
"Men are always talking about their gallantry in not being willing to hit a woman.
"Do they ever realize that many a husky woman
"Is fully capable of giving a good sock to the jaw—
"And that she gallantly refrains, in the face of provocations
"That would send a baby angel into the Jack Dempsey class?
"She does, indeed, but not, in our opinion, from gallantry—
"She refrains from subtlety—she knows many keener ways of getting even with a man "Than simply socking him in the jaw!
"However, returning to our spirited correspondent's original point
"That "no man ever really takes anything from a woman"—
"Even, or especially, from the woman who cares most for him, his wife.
"That she gets "nothing but trouble and grief
"For trying to tell a man anything"—
"We can only insist that, so far as observation—yes, and experience—goes,
"A man may not take his wife's advice or direction.
"But neither he, nor any other force under the blue vault of heaven, can stop her from GIVING him plenty of both—
"At least, she can always TELL him—
"If she can't tell him MUCH!
"Far from getting "nothing but trouble and grief" out of this luxury of integrity—
"This luxury of saying what she thinks to her husband
"About his looks, his clothes, his habits, his behavior, his earning capacity, his brains, his way of driving the car—
"A really convinced, conscientious critic on the hearth gets a whole lot of amusement and satisfaction out of her back seat driving.
"Furthermore, when she tells him that he'll be stuck with the stock he has bought,
"That his new suit won't wear well,
"That his bridge game is simply terrible,
"That he ought to take his next-door neighbor's advice about running his new portable motor,
"That he's letting his boss walk all over him—
"And when, as may well be the case, he mentally answers the nose—
"At his wife's protests or opinions—
"And when, following his own sweet will and way, he gets into a jam,
"And the consequences are exactly as unpleasant as his wife has warned him they would be—
"Then the wife who has been telling him can do so in the past tense.
"She can let anybody try to stop her!—remark, meaningfully,
"I TOLD YOU SO!"
"She can say it more than once before he walks out on her.

Linens for the Fall Bride

COLOR in the household linen trousseau of the bride is a decisive factor in the purchase of such essentials. But the stronger colors of last year are now just tints. There are several new shades recently introduced, among which is mahogany, shown in bedspreads, blankets and comforters, the tone very soft and harmonizing with early American furnishings.
Tonal themes are carried through from mattress pads to the coverlet covers for woolen comforters, from wash cloths to bed sheets. Solid colors in kitchen and glass towels still are the vogue.
Beginning with table linens, despite the color fad, it is interesting to note that fashion clings to the all white satin damask cloth for formal service. A three-yard cloth, the average size, is sufficient for a service for ten people. One such cloth with napkins is suggested, unless a great deal of entertaining is to be done.
For luncheon and breakfast the smartest fancy colored damasks are in pastel tints with green, gold, peach, rose and ivory proving great favorites. Two cloths of fifty-four inch squares and one in a fifty-four by seventy size constitute the requisites in this group. The smaller cloth has six napkins and the larger may have eight or twelve.
An oblong runner and eight doilies and eight napkins are for the more or less formal luncheon or an informal dinner and may be in damask, in lace, cut-work and flit, embroidered with cut-work, or in linen with lace applique. Four bridge sets complete this particular division. Color and design are a matter of personal taste.

Fruit as Medicine

It is quite well known that fruits contain medicinal properties which have specific effects. The grapefruit is regarded as a natural antidote for biliousness. Oranges also act directly upon and stimulate the liver. Lemons are a valuable remedy in liver troubles.
Much of the good effect of these citrus fruits is, however, lost by eating them with sugar. When you consider that too much sugar eating is one of the causes of torpid liver you will see the advantage of eating these fruits without sugar.
If you are subject to bilious attacks try the juice of a lemon in a glass of water before breakfast. This is considered an excellent liver tonic.

"DAD, what did Mrs. Sippli say?"

"What did Mrs. Sippli say?"

"Why, she didn't say anything."

"Why do they call her Mrs. Sippli?"

"She isn't a Mrs. Mississippi, the name of a river in the United States, the longest river in the world."

"Why do they call it Mrs. Sippli?"

"Mississippi is an Indian word, meaning Father of Waters."

"Does Mrs. mean father?"

"Oh, go to bed."

When on a Visit

If you are a guest in a home where there are servants it would be an act of courtesy to tip the maid. Both she and your hostess would appreciate this. The tip may range from 50c to $2 for a week-end visit, and for a week's visit from $1 to $2.

FOLLIES OF FASHION

Band at Hips Makes Short Figure Stocky

By Marguerite Barnes

MANY of the suits, coats and dresses of this season have wide bands of fur or felt material about the hips. This is fashion to be avoided by all but the extremely slender-hipped woman. It is flattering only to the thin. Even average-sized hips appear broader underneath such a band, as shown in the figure at the left. The sleeve decorations of matching fur also add to the apparent stockiness of a short woman. She, who is not tall and sylphlike would be better to choose the outfit at the right, in which the diagonal vertical closing, and a clever use of fur at the neck, center the interest away from the hips. This style is now, chic, and becoming to all but the decidedly tall.

A Tea Time Story

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

I SAT in my garden and watched a bee, and after having watched her for a while I began to reproach her for her outrageous behavior.

"Bee," I said, "you really act in a most shockingly heartless manner. Here you have been buzzing around this pretty little flower for the longest while, and though I could not hear clearly every word you whispered to her, I am certain you told her all the seducing and flattering lies your sort always uses. And in the end I saw that she was touched by your wooing. She received you lovingly and gave you all her honey, and I certainly thought you would be attached to her forever. But you, faithless and ungrateful, after having drunk deeply of her sweetness, are even now leaving her seemingly without any regret or shame. I am pained by such behavior."

"But why should you be pained," answered the bee, "and what would you wish me to do? This little flower was most delightful and, as you quite rightly observed, unstintingly kind to me. It was a highly satisfactory encounter, and I am laden with the sweetest memories of her which I shall presently distill and transmute into the golden wax and the amber liquid of my personal creation. I shall make something beautiful and lasting out of the gift she has willingly given to me, and that is really all the recompense I owe to her. To remain with her forever would be foolish. She is emptied and I am satiated. Neither of us is any good to the other. Is it not better to part instead of wearing each other with the useless repetitions of something that has ceased to have any meaning?"

"But the little flower," I sighed, "alone and forgotten, what will become of her?"

"She will grow," said the bee, "and she will accumulate a new store of honey, and another bee will presently appear and desire her sweetness, just as I, when I am once rid of the burden of this experience, will undoubtedly woo another flower of sufficient beauty and honey and delight. You called me unfaithful, but you are mistaken. I may forsake my lover but I never forsake love. I leave the single flower but I astiduously gather the honeyed soul that dwells in all of them. And, frankly, I can not see why this should shock you."

"Well," I said, "we humans beings have other ideas of faithfulness and duty. We consider it a sacred obligation to remain tied to one who has shown us kindness even if the store of kindness as well as our desire for it is exhausted. And our human flowers do not consider it sufficient recompense that something beautiful and lasting is created out of the sweetness they have lavished on us; they want the attachment and the protection of a lifetime in exchange for the honey they permitted us to taste. In short, according to our standards, you are very immoral, dear bee. We humans."

"Oh, you humans," interrupted the bee, "you manage to make pleasure a duty and love an obligation. No wonder you have not even the vestige of wings. We other creatures are too sensible and too proud to act accordingly to such a senseless code." And then he hurried away and his buzzing clearly indicated his contempt for our inarticulate foolishness.

To-Day's Good Manners

By Millicent James

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

THERE was a time when it was a bold woman who braved a hotel alone or spent a summer there unaccompanied by a relative or friend. She was regarded as not quite within the pale of conventionality, however discreetly she behaved herself.

All that is quite changed now. A woman may go practically anywhere and choose alone if she conducts herself properly and observes the rules of the place. So to "Alice M." who writes to ask me whether she still may spend her two weeks' vacation at a certain seaside hotel, although the friend who was to have accompanied her is unable now to do so, the answer is that she may. But as the hotel is a very fashionable one and, as she explains, her means are limited, she would much better make her visit at a smaller hotel where she would not so surely be, as you might say, lost in the shuffle of pretentiousness.

The fact that she is not familiar with the conventions of summer hotel life, as she tells me, makes it doubly wise for her to choose among the less expensive ones. She will, of course, make her reservations ahead, and if the hotel is a popular one, it will be necessary to advance to this matter considerably in advance of the visit.

However, arriving at the hotel, she goes directly to the desk, having given her checks to the porter who met the hotel bus at the station and who will carry her hand luggage to the desk and deliver her trunk or trunks to her room. In registering she uses the title Miss or Mrs., with the name of her town and State, as Miss Alicia Green or Mrs. James Brown Allen, Boston, New York.

A bell boy takes her to the room to which she has been assigned, unlocks and unstraps her luggage, sees that everything in the room is right, and for this she fees him 20 cents or a quarter. Should she not be pleased with her room or should she desire any changes, she calls up the clerk and explains her wishes.

This matter attended to, she arranges her things and hangs up her clothes, unless, of course, she wishes to have the hotel maid detailed to her floor do this for her. She may arrange to have certain extra services done regularly—her laundry sent, her clothes kept in order and so on. For this she fees according to the amount of service.

Of course she may, if she is inclined, "freshen up" and go down at any time, but alone, it is rather etiquette to make the initial appearance at dinner time, or if she has arrived before luncheon, at that meal, when she will wear her hat.

This sounds very stiff and like the old way, when one considered so much more exactly what others might think, but to appear at dinner for the first time is to stage a more auspicious entrance. These smaller summer hotels are extremely cliquey, and it is more than in going to a new place to live does one want to "get in" with the wrong people.

Alicia M. then, will select a quiet gown, but one of her most attractive, for the first dinner in the hotel. The head waiter will meet her at the door of the dining room. He has already assigned her a seat which, if she does not like, may be changed later on. She will be reserved, not taking the lead in making conversation with those at her table, but entering in on it gracefully. In no wise, either then or later, will she make personal remarks.

She will be most careful not to make herself conspicuous. She will not lounge in the lobby but keep rather to the reception rooms, and she will be particular with whom she makes acquaintance. It is easy enough in a summer hotel to find out who people are, and keep in mind that the other guests have the same privilege of finding out about you. There are many differences between spending two weeks at a summer hotel and the same time at a transient place, as Alicia M. will find.

When Alicia is ready to leave she will see that the maid, her porter and the bell boys are given proper fees, not less than a dollar a week each, she will have her luggage ready in time and, preferably, she will have her bill sent to her to look over before paying it at the desk.

There are many children today who insist upon having their own way. Whether this is because their parents are too busy to stop and train them or not I do not know.

However, if you have your child's future in mind I suggest that you direct his attention to something else should he get into a temper because he cannot have something for which he cries.

The habit of giving a child something for which he sets up a howl is bad, for he will soon be running the household, and the neighborhood too, which he once finds out that a bit of crying will get him what he wants.

Children soon forget, and when your youngster insists upon having something that is not good for him, divert him and point out something which will attract his interest in another direction.

Please do not give in to your children. It's bad.

While the guests are being belted with the snowballs a little snowstorm might be enacted. Have about six persons stationed around the table, back of the guests, with bags of white confetti which they suddenly hold high and let "snow" slowly fall over the assembled guests.

The musical numbers introduced during the evening should have a wintry tone, such as "Jingle Bells," etc.

IF you are using the attractive oilcloth table mat for the summer you can keep them from curling around the edges if you put a strip of half-inch adhesive tape (wider if the mats are large) on under side of mats about half an inch from the edge.

You can keep a cut ham perfectly fresh if you pour melted paraffin over the ends. The wax can be quickly scraped off with a knife when you are ready to cut another slice. A ham thus treated will keep indefinitely and will not mould.

A table and two chairs that can be folded into a flat box and attached to the porch rail when not in use is a handy set for the porch meal.

Unbreakable Vacuum Jar

A combination food jar and vacuum bottle which is unbreakable takes the place of the old and more delicate vacuum bottle. The new vacuum bottle may be secured separately with smart leather case. An excellent aid to a picnic party.

You and Your Child

By Ina Morris

"Give me a kiss," said the

"aunt from Germany to little Arnold. "I don't

to," was the three-year-old's arted, but as mother said nothing decided that these were the smoking manners of this raw coun-

After a while, however, she became so charmed of the little fellow's cute ways that she decided to win him. So she played with him, and told him stories, and they became great friends. As she was leaving, he ran up to her and put up his little mouth for a kiss. "I guess the child was right in refusing to kiss me before," she reflected. "He didn't feel like kissing an absolute stranger, and his mother didn't force him, because she didn't want to teach him hypoetry.

Very often grandparents and other relations think that children should be made to show affection. Is love something that can be forced? Love must be won. If one constantly criticizes a child, talks harshly to him, and for long periods ignores his presence, one can hardly expect to elicit affection. Yet how easily won and how sincere is the affection of a little child!

Forcing a little one to "kiss and make up" is another way in which some parents teach hypocrisy. The child, still angry after a quarrel, does not feel like kissing. If he is left alone, however, just as soon as the clouds of battle have disap-," ed, he will quickly forget the "a" bance and be his sunny, kindly self.

If we want our children to be sincere we must allow them to express their affection spontaneously. Journeys we can demand, but never love.

Many boys as they grow older, think that it is babyish to be so sincere in expressing affection, especially in public.

They do a hundred clever things to avoid affection if mother or some other relative kisses them in front of the "fellows." It is only left to respect their feelings in this matter. They love us just as much as ever, and they will probably change their attitude as they mature.

It is the inner feeling of kindness, unselfishness and consideration that we should try to cultivate in our children, and then the outer expression will take care of itself.

The Bib Necklace

In Paris

PARISIANS have discovered a new way of donning six necklaces where only one sufficed before.

It necessitates the latest version of the bib necklace, whose graduated strands cover the front of the frock

like a bib and the back of the neck

like a dog collar.

The first bib necklaces introduced last year were made of rows of em-eralds, a single necklace wound around and around the throat. This fashion grew into a fad at once, although some women found the overlapping strands uncomfortable under lace collars and the wide brims of hats.

Bib necklaces were evolved to those in which several chains were fastened together with a single clasp—a device which permitted wearing the necklace a single way.

Being easily adapted to various uses, the new Paris jewel bib has the advantage over its predecessors. The six separate necklaces are all of different lengths, so that one or any number suited to a particular dress may be worn and the others left off.

Black Velvet, Turquoise

BLACK VELVET costumes for afternoon and evening show the striking contrast of turquoise.

A frock made of black transparent velvet is combined with turquoise chiffon embroidered with beads in the same shade. Another has an attractive little collar and cuffs of turquoise crepe.

School nurse says
all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

V. F. W. TO HOLD MEETING IN EAST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 20.—In a communication addressed to America's overseas ex-service men of all wars, conveyed through national headquarters here of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., Governor Albert C. Ritchie voices a message of welcome to the Thirty-first national encampment of the V. F. W. to be held in Baltimore, August 31 to September 5.

"The people of Maryland are looking forward eagerly to the Thirty-first national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars which is to be held in Baltimore," Governor Ritchie declared.

"We are very proud of the Maryland department of this organization and the part its members played in the World War and our hands are extended in grateful and affectionate welcome to their brothers from all parts of the country. Our people will take them into their homes and hearts."

Besides being on the program to express the official welcome of the state of Maryland at the joint opening ceremonies of the 1930 convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., its Ladies Auxiliary and affiliated bodies, Governor Ritchie will occupy a place of honor in the reviewing stand at the side of President Hoover and other distinguished guests during the annual military parade on September 2.

With a potential delegation strength of approximately 2000 accredited delegates of subordinate V. F. W. posts throughout the country, about 1000 Auxiliary delegates and about 500 delegates of the Military Order of the Cootie, Jun society of the V. F. W., the Baltimore encampment attendance promises to shatter all previous records. The 1930 encampment will witness the first test of the action in 1929 to double the legal representation of individual units at national encampments.

In addition to the increased quota of delegates, thousands of veterans and their families will flock to Baltimore to participate in the program of entertainment that is being prepared and to take part in the various company and divisional reunions of World War and Spanish-American war outfits.

As features of the week's activities the committee in charge has arranged for an all day boat trip to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, a mammoth military parade with President Herbert Hoover in the reviewing stand, an inter-service athletic tournament, a military ball, side trips to Ft. McHenry, birthplace of the Star Spangled Banner and other points of historic interest in and around Baltimore.

MA KENNEDY CHARGES PLOT TO OUST AIMEE FROM TEMPLE

to believe in her healing if she couldn't help herself." The claim of a plot to take the stronghold of the Four Square Gospel from Mrs. McPherson was a new trend for Mrs. Kennedy after her scathing charges against Mrs. McPherson.

"My daughter was mean to me and she struck me," Mrs. Kennedy said. "But I want to be of help to her. I'm certain that people she trusts are plotting against her."

Got Note
"She already has turned considerable of her power in the temple over and all she got for it was a note for $250,000."

"The temple was once owned by sister and me but now it looks as if neither of us will have anything to say about it."

"Just to further the plot, reports have been given out that sister is blind when it is known that she is not. People certainly will think that it is funny and I doubt that sister knows anything at all about the reports which claim her to be blind."

Loves "Sister"
"Even if we are not on friendly terms I always will love sister and I think she ought to be warned of this plot."

Earlier in the day Mrs. McPherson admitted reporters to her bedside briefly to deny that she struck her mother.

"I could never strike mother, never," she said.

No Answer
She refused to make any answer to questions about the report of a recent face lifting operation.

Mrs. McPherson refused to comment on the newer charges of her mother, regarding the plot to get temple control.

Dr. Edwin H. Williams noted physician and psychiatrist, visited the evangelist several times during the day.

Leave Friday
"She wants to be able to go to Los Angeles Sunday and preach," Dr. Williams said as he came from her Malibu Beach cottage. "She may be able to do that for she has made a remarkable recovery from her nervous breakdown."

"She needs more rest," Dr. Williams continued. "But maybe it would be best to let her have her way right now and get the rest in later."

In the face of the direct statements of Dr. Williams to the contrary, Emma Schaeffer, one of Mrs. McPherson's secretaries, announced again today that "sister still is blind."

Reporters Present
Her statement was made at a meeting for branch managers of the temple and subsidiary churches of the Four Square gospels.

Although the meeting was supposed to be secret, numerous reporters went in and heard Miss Schaeffer tell of Mrs. McPherson's condition.

"Sister is blind," Miss Schaeffer said. "Don't believe anything else. Only believe what we tell you here and carry the tidings to the congregations."

Done No Wrong
Miss Schaeffer's announcement was precluded by a discussion of her five years with Mrs. McPherson.

"During that five years," she said, "sister never has done anything wrong. She never is alone. Sometimes she goes horseback riding or swimming but everyone needs recreation."

The ministers of the branch churches passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, that we, as ministers of the branch churches of Angelus temple, resolve to stand one hundred per cent loyal for sister McPherson and vote to send her our thanks for what she has done for us. We wish to express our complete confidence in what has been reported to us today by Miss Jordan (assistant to Mrs. McPherson) and Miss Schaeffer and will do our best to refute all other reports. We send our love, complete confidence and appreciation and will only believe in her."

Prayer Asked
The branch churches were asked to proclaim three days of fasting and prayer for the recovery of Mrs. McPherson.

At the meeting, sister Mary Sullivan said she was having a hard time preventing the girls in her group from forming a league to "mob" Mrs. Kennedy.

Her announcement was met by scattered applause and laughter. Earlier in the day Mrs. Kennedy said she thought her daughter should appear at Angelus temple to assure her followers that she was not deathly ill, as reports given out by her secretaries indicated.

FAMOUS RODEO WILL BE HELD AUG. 28

PENDLETON, Ore., Aug. 20.—UP—Top hands, waddies, cowgirls and lovers of the old west were turning their trails toward Pendleton today to help the Pendleton Roundup celebrate its 21st birthday, Aug. 28-29-30.

And this pioneer town of the old range cattle country, now largely turned to the production of wheat, will be ready to welcome the visitors in the spirit of bygone days when the loughorn roamed the vast reaches of the eastern Oregon country.

Pendleton itself inaugurated the roundup season Aug. 16 with the big annual dressup parade and dance in Happy canyon. From that parade on the male population—and many of the women, also—wear the "10 gallon" hats, the bright scarlet, green and purple neckerchiefs, spurs and chaps of the cowboys. Horses will once again be common sights on the streets and around the town and the 1930 roundup, the 21st anniversary similar affair, will be on.

Cowboys and cowgirls known on the ranges from Cheyenne to the Rio Grande will be here this year. Among them are: Dick Shelton, world champion bulldogger;

Miss Bradbury declared her father could be heard very plainly.

Woman Gets Divorce From S. F. Clubman

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—UP—A divorce was granted today to Mrs. Barbara Moulton Phillips, 25, from Gratton D. Phillips, wealthy San Francisco business man, charging extreme cruelty.

The 1500 Indians have pitched their teepees and lend much color to the old western setting. An "over the hill" parade of the Indians in which the entire Indian delegation appears over a hill with a sky background much as an emigrant might have seen 75 years ago, is an innovation this year.

Harvey Rites Will Be Held Friday At 2

Funeral services for Mrs. Olive Mae Harvey, 54, of San Pablo, who passed away in a sanitarium recently, will be held from the Wilson and Kratzer funeral chapel at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Following the services the body will be entombed in the Sunset Mausoleum.

BILLINGS PLEA HEARING ENDS

produced before them. Taking the view that Money's case is altogether outside their jurisdiction, the court refused.

Money's application for pardon is pending before Gov. Young and his advisory pardon board. Billings case was heard before members of the Supreme Court, sitting as a fact finding commission, under California law which prohibits the governor's action on the pardon application of a two-time felon without a recommendation from the majority of the members of the court. Billings had previously served a term for the unlawful possession of dynamite.

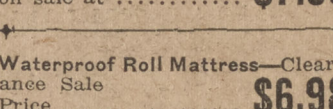

Waste Satisfied
Before Justice Waste closed the hearing, McKenzie announced that he was satisfied with its conduct, that the convicted man had been granted what their adherents have always contended was denied them—justice—a fair and impartial hearing.

The justices have once before considered Billings' application, refusing a favorable recommendation in a decision handed down in June. Money was shortly afterward released by the governor's board, then by Gov. Young.
